

Edgartown School Memorial

School bells are ringing...

Time to remember how they rang for you! If you attended, worked, participated in the life of the old Edgartown School, or just wanted to make a contribution, please donate to the Edgartown School memorial, which is shown below. We must never forget the role she played in so many lives, so this memorial will be to that honor. It will be placed at the entrance to the new library, where the entrance to the old school once was. It will be installed so that you walk over the old (Edgartown School) and on the new (Edgartown Public Library). The compass rose stands for the sea in our blood, as we are sailors living on an island. The compass rose also stands for the roses of Edgartown, especially the "New Dawn" climbing rose. The compass stands for "direction", which the school gave and the new library will give. The circle symbolizes that both institutions are connected with knowledge, coming full circle with each other. Finally, the bricks in the circle are the very bricks that came from the old school and will stand like little soldiers to guard the essence of the memorial.

Please join in this notable cause and make your checks payable to the Town of Edgartown. Please earmark them for the "Edgartown School Memorial". Send them to:
